Gulpit: Spread Hapiness
Snackys: Its yummy

A food revolution through innovation

To develop products with zero preservatives and zero added sugar using vacuum concentration, alongside lower-oil fruit and root chips made through vacuum frying.

Our ambition

To bring fruit-based food innovation and healthier everyday choices to consumers around the world.

What the food revolution means

01	Ingredient character	Fruits, herbs and roots give each recipe a recognisable identity and a distinctive flavour.
02	Zero added sugar	Develop recipes without added sugar, while acknowledging naturally occurring fruit sugars.
03	Zero preservatives	Build the formulation, processing and packaging around the goal of no added preservatives.
04	Enjoyment first	Create products people choose for taste and use regularly in meals and snack occasions.

Food science behind the flavour

01	Vacuum concentration	Planned for fruit spreads, alongside zero-preservative formulation development.
02	Retort processing	Planned with product-specific validation of the filled pack and thermal process.
03	Vacuum frying	Our intended process for chips, with a focus on lower oil uptake and crisp texture.
04	Pack development	Bottom-up squeeze bottles and cans designed around use and shelf presentation.

Vacuum concentration in the product plan

01	Lower-pressure processing	Vacuum reduces the boiling temperature, allowing water removal at lower process temperatures.
02	Concentration & texture	Water removal increases solids concentration. Recipe development sets the desired spread consistency.
03	Flavour development	The intended approach combines fruit character with balanced savoury or fusion ingredients.
04	Finished-product validation	Concentration alone does not establish shelf life. The full recipe, thermal process and pack need validation.

Vacuum frying and the lower-oil ambition

01	Ingredient preparation	Set maturity, slice thickness and preparation standards for each fruit or root.
02	Reduced-pressure frying	Vacuum frying permits moisture removal at lower temperatures than comparable atmospheric frying.
03	Oil removal & texture	Optimise frying and the post-fry oil-removal step together. Results depend on the ingredient and process.
04	Evidence for the pack	Measure final oil content and compare it with a defined reference before making a lower-oil claim.

Planned process. Oil reduction and product performance require SKU-level trials.

Trust begins with the product

A mission for healthier choices, backed by product development and clear consumer information.

Standards we intend to build into our operating system

Ingredient identity

Defined raw-material specifications and supplier traceability.

Added sugar & preservatives

Recipes without added sugar or preservatives, verified before launch.

Pack performance

Product, packaging and shelf-life validation before launch.

Market readiness

Clear labels and destination-specific compliance reviews.

A disciplined path to launch

01	Ingredients & suppliers	Define ingredient identity, maturity and quality specifications. Qualify alternative sources for key materials.
02	Recipe & pilot batches	Balance taste and texture, review compound ingredients, and test the zero-added-sugar formulation goal.
03	Process & packaging	Validate the thermal process, seals and pack compatibility. Study shelf life in the intended storage conditions.
04	Consumer & market trials	Test serving ideas, pack usability and repeat purchase before extending the assortment and distribution.

GLOBAL AMBITION

India at our core.
The world in our plans.

01

India & UAE

Proposed foundation markets for launch and learning.

02

Wider GCC

Proposed regional expansion through distribution partners.

03

Selected global markets

Long-term opportunities in Asia, Europe, Africa and the Americas.

Illustrative expansion direction. Market entry will depend on demand and regulatory readiness.

India and UAE: proposed launch focus

INDIA

Consumer proposition

Familiar ingredients in new formats, with serving ideas that fit Indian meals and snacking.

Proposed route

Begin with selected retail and online pilots. Expand successful flavours using repeat sales and replenishment evidence.

UAE

Consumer proposition

Indian food innovation for a multicultural audience, with flavours suited to different cuisines.

Proposed route

Work with local import and distribution partners. Establish product readiness and service standards before scaling.

Strategic direction, not an announcement of current market presence.

A market-by-market expansion approach

01	Consumer fit	Prioritise markets where flavour preferences, food occasions and willingness to pay support the portfolio.
02	Local adaptation	Review assortment, serving ideas, language and pack formats while preserving each brand’s identity.
03	Partner readiness	Select partners with category experience, reliable storage and a practical route to consumers.
04	Commercial proof	Scale after repeat orders and dependable service demonstrate a viable business in the market.

Proposed expansion principles. No country-entry dates or overseas footprint are claimed.

A portfolio for international partners

Avinyates welcomes conversations with partners who understand their consumers and can build brands with us over time.

Importers & distributors

Market development, local execution and sustainable replenishment.

Retail & e-commerce

Focused assortments, product discovery and compelling shelf presentation.

Foodservice partners

Menu trials and serving ideas suited to local food occasions.

Product & supply partners

Ingredient expertise and packaging development for consistent quality.

How a partnership can develop

01	Portfolio discussion	Agree the target consumer, sales channels and initial flavour shortlist.
02	Samples & product review	Review taste, ingredients, packaging and serving applications once development samples are available.
03	Pilot launch plan	Define the assortment, commercial terms, responsibilities and a measured launch programme.
04	Review & expansion	Use consumer feedback and replenishment performance to refine the range and grow the relationship.
